

PRIVACY AND CONFIDENTIALITY

Personal Information

The Roberts/Smart Centre (RSC) is committed to maintaining the confidentiality of the personal information of its clients, employees, volunteers, students completing practicums, donors, members, and other stakeholders.

Personal information is given in trust and must remain confidential. It is important that personal information does not circulate outside of the Centre in an unauthorized manner, or within the Centre among employees, for reasons other than appropriate consultations in the normal course of business.

The Roberts/Smart Centre collects personal information to provide quality services to its clients: for assessment and treatment planning purposes, routine professional supervision, inter-agency coordination and planning, and quality assurance practices including accreditation. We also keep records of all of our contacts with our clients and other service providers as this is a legal requirement. This includes records of clients' Plans of Care, case notes, any correspondence, and any other day-to-day important information. The amount and type of information is limited to what is necessary for the identified purpose(s).

Any individual who provides personal information can expect the information to be carefully protected and used only for the purpose(s) for which it was collected. Any other use of an individual's personal information is subject to that individual's consent. You may take away your consent or refuse consent regarding the use of your personal information at any time. This may make it more difficult to serve you as effectively or quickly if you are receiving services from the Centre.

All employees, prospective employees, volunteers, and students of the Centre must sign the Centre's "Confidentiality Agreement" prior to working with our clients and accessing the Centre's property and/or documentation. The Centre will protect personal information from theft and loss, as well as unauthorized access, disclosure, copying, or use.

Use and disclosure of your personal information

We will only use your personal information in order to serve you to the best of our abilities.

The Centre will use or disclose personal information:

- Only for the purpose(s) for which it was collected, and except with the informed consent of the individual or as required by law
- Keep personal information only as long as necessary to satisfy the purposes
- Keep personal information used to make a decision about a person for a reasonable period. This should allow the person to obtain the information about the decision and pursue redress if the person so desires
- Document any new purpose(s) for the use of personal information and obtain necessary consent.

Access to a client's personal information is limited to:

- the client, at the client's request, or the client's legal guardian
- authorized staff involved in client treatment and care
- supervisory and audit staff responsible for the quality of service
- medical practitioners or police officers, if the need is urgent

All clients being served by the Roberts/Smart Centre have the right to access their own personal files, upon request. This request should be made to the Program Coordinator or the client's Clinician. There may be exceptions to disclosing the records and these staff will assist the client when accessing the records.

Past clients of the Centre may also request access and copies of their files. This request should be directed to info@rsc-crs.com and the appropriate Manager in the Centre will be notified and assist in ensuring that the file is complete and that the appropriate consents are in place, prior to disclosure.

Cookie Policy

We are committed to ensuring the privacy and security of your personal information, including information collected through our website. Like many websites, we use cookies to improve your browsing experience. Cookies are small text files stored on your device that help us analyze website traffic and remember your preferences—such as language and accessibility options. The use of cookies allows us to offer a more efficient and personalized user experience.

By using our website, you consent to the use of cookies as described in this policy. You have the option to disable cookies in your browser settings; however, this may impact the functionality of certain features on the site. We only use cookies for the purposes outlined above, and we do not collect personal information through cookies unless voluntarily provided by users.

We are committed to ensuring the security and confidentiality of your personal information and adhering to Canadian privacy laws. If you have any questions about our cookie policy or how your personal data is handled online, please contact us at info@rsc-crs.com.
